Thanks, Katrina! Yep, I'm sure I have sent her the process documents before (it's Janna Clark from Fox in Tulsa, I think she talked to you at the last community meeting). I'll make sure to emphasize the 2-3 year timeframe.

Jennah, I think we have responded to this question before. Please provide the reporter with the superfund process handouts.

The fence is being placed around the church property because there are areas of concern exposed at the surface. We put up the fence as a precaution to keep folks off of the property and away from these areas. At this time, no potential waste areas have been identified in the stream next to the property. As part of the investigation, we will include the stream and sample both the sediment and surface water.

The superfund process is a long process and takes time to investigate and evaluate cleanup alternatives. We are in the investigation stage now and have completed sampling the residential areas. Our next focus will be on the site as a whole. At this time, we do not expect to have the investigation complete for the next 2-3 years.

Hi Katrina and Mark—

9750886

I'm not sure who these questions should go to. The reporter is asking about a fence around the church on the Wilcox site. Can you help with these?

We just noticed there's a new fence up around the church. Do you know the reason that went up? Why it doesn't go around the creek? And when do you think cleanup will start?

Thanks,
Jennah
